

Graeme on the Jandakot observation deck

Graeme had a rental car so on Saturday afternoon he kindly took me to the Aviation Heritage Museum where we spent well over an hour looking around. It is a good exhibition and they have the only complete Lancaster on display in Australia.

Beautiful Perth skyline with Langley Park airfield encircled and the Swan River

TOUCHDOWN AT THE ROCK

As I needed to cross the continent I thought a little side trip would get me to see Uluru. Arriving mid morning I had 4 hours, so I grabbed a hire car and took off. I walked up to the rock,

An opportunity to be a tourist and visit Uluru. It is an impressive sight

lia. Later spending the afternoon at the Aero Club at Jandakot. Interesting to see a large Club operation. They have an excellent three level facility with the business and training on the ground level, upstairs a large Bar and social area, with an open deck observation area.

Most enjoyable afternoon with a couple of drinks in the Bar watching all the aircraft movements through the floor to ceiling windows really well set up.

When Graeme first arrived in Australia he lived in Perth, so it was a bit of an old home week for him during his stay catching up with people. On the way back to Perth we traveled past the University where he studied and then up to Kings Park lookout which gave a view of the entire Red Bull course.

It was a great weekend seeing the World's most elite pilots compete.

In the 70's the airstrip was right next to the Rock. A Heron flying past the face stood there for awhile. It is as impressive as I imagined it was going to be and I had always wanted to see it since I was a kid.

Jumped back on the Jet and headed for Perth. The heat was up by now and the takeoff was pretty lumpy but soon enjoying lunch and a glass of shiraz as the 717 dodged around the tops of big storm clouds. The blue black storm underneath us, the brilliant white of the cloud tops as we winged around them looked fantastic.

Back at the Clubrooms the best seat in the house with the Big Screen running & Bar Open